

Andrew and his prizewinning car, right before the race

ANDREW CHO WINS CAR RACING CONTEST!

On June 11, CHSAP held the first ever egg-car racing contest. Participants built cars out of different materials and put an egg inside. The goal of the contest was to successfully roll the car down the ramp without breaking the egg, and be the fastest to do so. Second place went to Jackson Robinson, Maddie Schwartz, and Selena Sanchez, and third place to Jun Cho, Nicholas Danforth, and Kyrill Mueller. Max Titlebaum and Sam and Charlie DeLisa received honorable mentions for the best explanation of the function of their car. Top prize went to Andrew Cho, who received a free CHSAP shirt and a $15 gift card to Target. Congratulations to all the winners, and thanks to all the participants!
